Woman's Club Honors 'District Jewel'

BY JERILYN WATSON
Woman's Editor

Members of all orders and shades ran help and hand in the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Arlington Heights Junior Women's Club at the annual luncheon of the Arlington Heights Woman's Club.

Guests a steady shift rain, the women looked festive in bright spring dresses. Bells, daisies and both dressed by club members at the luncheon table ranged in but from one single to dozens of plates.

Mrs. Albert C. Peters, retiring president, appeared to read and happy at the turned over the club's leadership to Mrs. Douglas Kern. Mrs. Kern received the president's pin, symbol of her office, and Mrs. Peters was presented with a certificate for her services.

Mrs. Clemens Handicraft, candidate for president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, praised Mrs. Peters' devotion to the club.

Mrs. Peters seemed most delighted, however, when it was revealed that she and her husband had won first prize in the coming division of the club's bridge competition.

"What I'll tell all," said Mrs. Peters, "is that I'm proud to be a member of this club."

Another charming woman honored at the luncheon was Mrs. Vera Noyes, who was named the "district jewel" for 62 years of outstanding service.

Mrs. Noyes, whose youth appearance made the audience wonder how she possibly could have served the women's club 62 years, and she had enjoyed her participation.

"I recommend the road if you know enough," she said.

LYNN JESSEN of Arlington Heights crowned a year with her entertainment. Dressed as a cleaning woman with a mop and bucket, Lynn announced that all she needed to be president of a woman's club was a lovely hat and a good.

She then conducted a mock meeting. The treasurer's report consisted of a song, "Gladly Am I Told A Ballad," and the minutes of the previous meeting included good-natured humor in the women's club minutes.

"Talk about help - meen," Lynn teased a doctor's pretty wife. "She's been having beauty parls all around Arlington Heights."

BEHINDS being just plain funny, Lynn also is an excellent singer. She proved this in the mock report of the club's conservation chairman, a song about feeding the birds from "May Poppins."

Entertainment also included a showing of fashions from Madison to Rome, Arlington Heights. Among the attractive club models were Mrs. Lowell Curry and Mrs. Ralph Chaberg.

DR. CONSTANCE Sore, chairman of the first annual benefit ball of Northwest Community Hospital, is concerned about mismanagement; she believes might have learned from the making of invitations to the May 14 a

Dr. Sore, the hospital's chief radiologist, said the invitations, consisting of nine like to persons whose names appeared on a variety of lists.

Mrs. Albert C. Peters looked pleased at the luncheon a gift for her service as club president.

Among models for the style show at the luncheon was Mrs. Ralph Chaberg.

The idea, he said, was to provide personal invitations for some persons known to be interested in the hospital.

"It is conceivable that some persons may have received more than one invitation, and others none at all," he said.

"This is our first attempt to compile such a list and some important people might have been missed," he said.

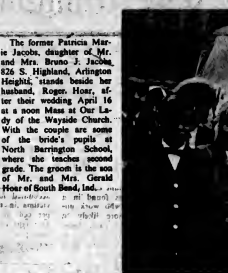

"We want to make it properly clear," he continued, "that everyone is not only invited and welcome, but urged to attend the ball."

The ball will be held at Arlington Park, and includes music by two bands, a buffet dinner and surprise entertainers.

Phil Chappert will call for much more at the party. Tickets are $5.00 and $10.00 and ask for attention 502.

Dr. Sore urged persons who wish to receive invitations by mail to call CL 9-1000 and ask for attention 502.

Mary Second Oldest of 13, Scholarship Really Helps

By BILL PETERSEN

"We're real proud of her. She's a wonderful girl," said Mrs. M. Arlene Winters.

"Just a second, I've got a customer."

Mrs. Winters didn't have time to chat. Things were busy at the counter in Carson First Food & Co.'s Restaurant where she works.

"That girl turns the rope at both ends."

Mrs. Winters was talking about her daughter Mary who had just won national status of a four-year tuition scholarship awarded by State Rep. Eugene Chapman.

Mary is the second oldest of 13 children and is a senior at Sacred Heart High School.

"The scholarship will really help," Mary said.

Mary is assistant editor of her high school newspaper and is a study hall monitor at the University of Illinois.

"My father is a teacher. I wouldn't be able to," she said.

"Now I can do just what I want."

Reading being a hobby since Mary was 25 hours a week in a clerk at Waldba's Hardware store. She says it keeps her busy but being busy is a better way to spend time.

A halfway since she was 11 and it took her 12 hours to read.

Now she is studying with 12 books a week. "I tell them I'll give them some study time."

from the store."

Mary said she has been able to save much of her job earnings.

"I pay my own tuition at Sacred Heart, and sometimes help out the family," she said.

She plans on holding two jobs this summer to earn enough to pay college living expenses and also to work when she gets to college.

The Winters family lives in a modest two-story frame house at 1013 N. Princeton.

"I'm a child of the 1940s and loves my car," she said. "I have a 1954 Buick Wildcat."

They are Jerry, 19, Louis, 17, Greg, 16, Mark, 13, Beth, 12, and John, 10. Carol, 10, Mary, 8, and George, 4.

Parking Fee Refund Denied

$4,800 Paid to Omit 3 Spaces Remains in Special Account

By FRANK VON ARX

Law Dept. U.S.A. was continued a second day Monday by the Arlington Heights village board as it tangled with a series of tricky legal questions.

A business property owner was refused refund of $4,800 he paid as return for waiver of parking requirements.

A farmer will have part of his land condemned as the village board will order the land to be sold.

And the village doesn't know if it can legally pay $10,000 in library bills.

On the first item, town voted 6 to 1 not to refund the $4,800 that Howard S. Faber paid into a special parking fund.

Attorney Robert Marks of the Chicago law firm of Marks, Marks and Kaplan said the payment was collected in 1962 so that Faber could secure waiver of parking requirements for three vacant spaces when he improved property at the southeast corner of Dundas and Minor.

Marks said the village grant of waiver of some parking space in 1963 without payment of money. He said Faber represents the only money paid into the fund to refund for off-street parking on the street.

"Faber, not the owner of the property owner, said the money was collected on a promise that he parking lot for 10 spaces would be constructed north of the property, but no evidence of this."

"We never got a lot on the north side for shoppers. Faber said 'If you are doing parking you can take their equity out of the window.'"

TRUSTEE Larry A. Brumley said Faber was aware of plan for downtown development.

"I used to get called when they talked about downtown development," Faber replied. "I've seen plans called. They talked about dropping the railroad tracks and vacating Dundas but nothing ever happened."

Marks said the village's zoning board of appeals has now authorized a variance to Faber so that the $4,800 is no longer a refund.

Jack Sargent, village attorney, disagreed.

"Faber made what I would consider a voluntary contribution to the fund of parking space. He chose to pay... so he can't get it back."

Marks said the village had spent large sums for parking facilities and that it hopes to speed them.

"If it means more to the benefit of an ordinance, he is making the burden of it."

Marks said he would hold the ordinance in question when property is requested in form of a request for variance to Faber.

Since the housing board subsequently granted a variance, and the village has not developed a shopping parking lot, Faber has "paid $4,800 on no parking," Marks said.

OWNERSHIP of Arlington Heights Rd. presented another legal question.

The village board voted for condemnation of property owned by Albert W. Katz, 2000 N. Dundas, for a proposed service station.

The village wants an easement on the property, but Katz said he would not sell the property.

Revolution in the Piano Lesson

LEFT - Piano lessons fun? These kids, who are taking part in a revolutionary program at Lynn & Rudy's Restaurant, think so. They study piano pieces ranging from classical to contemporary, learning not only how to play them but also how to understand and even write them on the blackboard. They are trained to listen to music as they can play it by ear. Eventually they become able to pick up any piece of music and play it. The approach is as much as the kids like it.

'Habit Forming' Drugs Removed by Police

Cartons In Rubbish Pick Up

A large quantity of drug and medicine, some of them labeled "habit forming," were removed from the front of a home on the southeast side of the village Monday night.

The drugs had been deposited at the curb as part of the annual refuse pickup. Police investigators when they became alerted that children might remove the drugs.

A village truck hauled the cartons to the police station. Among the discarded drugs were found a variety of bottles labeled "Federal law prohibits dispensing of this medicine without a prescription."

Several cartons were found of a compound containing phenobarbital and barbiturates, which are habit-forming.

Part of the collection of medicine taken from the front of a southeast side home is displayed on a desk in the police department. Bottles of a compound containing phenobarbital carried the warning "habit forming."

POLICE Chief L. A. Callahan said the removal of the cartons was an example of a village program to prevent drug abuse.

"Finding potentially dangerous drugs such as these confined in this view and easily accessible to small children or possible drug addicts is the same as displaying a hot gun."

This is especially true, the chief said, when a large number of persons are gathered each year going through the discarded items searching for anything of value.

"There is a proper way to dispose of such medicine, and that way is not to put it on your front curb for the trash man."

The identity of the resident accused of throwing out the medicine has been withheld pending possible filing of charges.

Mrs. Wallace Wins in Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Alabama—Governor Wallace demonstrated voter loyalty to great in yesterday's primary election that it overcame the largest Negro vote in the state's history. Back Door Tops Poll On Garbage

By Bill Peterson

Most village residents are confused with their garbage collection, said Prof. Carl H. Larson, the University of Illinois market researcher who recently conducted a survey here.

Larson said he will release statistical results this afternoon.

He said he was surprised to find that the majority of the village's garbage is not collected by the village but is taken to a private contractor.

"The survey is an accurate one at a scientific point," he said, "but there is no other city in the country which has had so scientific a study."

Randhurst Center Is Defense Shelter

Randhurst shopping center has been designated as Mount Prospect's first civil defense shelter.

Contract between the Randhurst Corp. and the village civil defense agency was signed Tuesday afternoon.

Additional shelter contracts, between the village and Carson, Hale, Scott & Co., Wilmette, and Montgomery Ward & Co. will be negotiated.

The civil defense agency is under the direction of Lt. Lawrence Patis, of the Mount Prospect fire department. Patis said that when all plans are made and contracts with the three stores completed, the shelter will be able to accommodate 1,200 people in the event of a national emergency.

Taking part in the contract signing Friday were Lt. Gerald Fox, deputy Civil Defense director for shelter management; Harold J. Carlson, general manager of Randhurst; and Paul Dunn, Carlson's assistant.

A recent survey of 150 buildings in Mount Prospect for civil defense shelter was recently completed by the federal government.

Results of survey of other buildings in the village that are approved for future sheltering are expected in about four months.

Shelter space in the buildings of Randhurst under control of the Randhurst Corp. will be stocked with emergency supplies.

Continue Hearing in Burglary

A hearing in the case of a charged church - robber, Walter Mills, 19 McHenry, was continued Monday in Arlington Heights Circuit Court.

Judge Paul O'Malley said a psychiatrist's report on Mills, which had been ordered by the court, had not been completed. The hearing was continued until June 5.

The defense requested that the court order Mills returned to the hospital section of the County Jail. It was claimed that a similar order by Judge Burton Kolbman, was not carried out.

Mills claimed that while in a cell block at County Jail he was assaulted by inmates and forced to submit to certain "deviant acts."

Judge O'Malley ordered him confined to the hospital or infirmary pending his return to court.

"Now I can do just what I want to do," says Mary Winters after winning a tuition scholarship to the University of Illinois.

Mary Second Oldest of 13, Scholarship Really Helps

BY BILL PETERSON
"We're so proud of her. She's a wonderful girl," said Mr. M. Jerome Winters.
"Just a second. I've got a customer."

Winters didn't have time to chat. Things were busy at the counter at Carson Price Scott & Co.'s Randhurst store when she called.

"That girl brings the rope at both ends."

Mr. Winters was talking about his daughter Mary who had just been named winner of a four-year tuition scholarship awarded by State Rep. Eugene Chapman.

Mary is the second oldest of the 13 Winters children and is a senior at Sacred Heart High School.

The scholarship will really help, Mary said.

"Mary is associate editor of the school newspaper and wants to study journalism at the University of Illinois."

"For a while I thought I wouldn't be able to," she said. "Now I can do just what I want."

Besides being a logical student, Mary works 25 hours a week at Carson Price Scott & Co.'s Randhurst store when she calls.

"She brings the rope at both ends."

Mr. Winters said she was 11 and at one time took a beauty course.

Now a student with 13 kids (except) No. 10, according to Mary.

She said there is always some one coming in their room wanting to stay because of something she said. "I'll tell them if they promise not to show me I'll bring them some candy home from the store."

Mary said she has been able to save much of her job earnings.

"I pay my own tuition at Sacred Heart and sometimes help out the family," she said.

The plan on holding two jobs this summer is more enough to pay college living expenses and help a little more when she gets to college.

The Winters family lives in a modern two-story frame house at 1625 N. Princeton. Their yard is cluttered with bicycles and even Mrs. Winters admits she has got "a flock." Her children range from 11 to 13.

They are: Jerry, 13, Louise, 17, Greg, 14, Mark, 12, Bob, and Ted, both 11, Gordon, 10, Mary, 8, Colleen, 7, Bob, 5, and George, 4.

School Bus 'Pie' Still Intact

The Dist. 214 transportation pie still is available for slicing but it seems that Cook County School Bus Co. will not be able to make it.

Transportation bids for Elk Grove High School which were presented last week were closed Monday night by the board of education. Representatives from the Davidson and Kitzmiller Bus Co. were present with Carson Price Scott & Co. There was no representative present from the Schenck Bus Co. which also bid on the service for Elk Grove.

In a cost comparison Winters from Cook County Bus Co. stated that the bid included the loss of the Cook County Bus Co. for the Elk Grove transportation.

"This is a district that is in a difficult position," said Winters. "Why select over growing pain to the representative?"

Competition is healthy. In my business experience, I'm saying, 16 from the Elk Grove district, 60 from Oak Park, 20 from Arlington Heights and about 60 from Ridgecrest and about 60 from Ridgecrest.

"Without the information that we have received tonight I was not possible for us to make an estimate and did the bus we could bid we would end up losing to come up with an unusual amount," said Bruce Kitzmiller.

When the board began to discuss the length of the proposed contract for Elk Grove, bus company representative again bid.

"We are not in a position to make a two-year contract for the instant of money we would have to raise," Kitzmiller said.

"I am sorry to see you in the hole," said Winters. "I am sorry to see you in the hole," said Winters. "I am sorry to see you in the hole," said Winters.

BUSINESS manager Frank Coleman presented statistics that he said were not available until the time of the meeting.

There were 1,279 students enrolled and registered for Elk Grove High School. For the last year 115 are from Elk Grove. Competition is healthy. In my business experience, I'm saying, 16 from the Elk Grove district, 60 from Oak Park, 20 from Arlington Heights and about 60 from Ridgecrest and about 60 from Ridgecrest.

When the board began to discuss the length of the proposed contract for Elk Grove, bus company representative again bid.

"We are not in a position to make a two-year contract for the instant of money we would have to raise," Kitzmiller said.

"I am sorry to see you in the hole," said Winters. "I am sorry to see you in the hole," said Winters. "I am sorry to see you in the hole," said Winters.

According to the figures presented by Winters, the Cook County Bus Co. could supply the needed buses at the lowest estimated yearly cost to the district.

The Davidson and Kitzmiller companies also agreed that they would keep their bids below the board for another year for consideration.

The board decided not to take action but to wait until next Monday's meeting when the administration could assemble buses and costs for a total comparison by the board.

Card Park, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Park of 6 East 1st, Mount Prospect, puts her name down at Tri-Color Farm in Palatine. She is one of the many who attended the school today.

Scholarship Won By McMahon

A Prospect High School senior who plans to major in chemistry has been awarded a scholarship by Loyola University.

David McMahon, 17, 507 East Oak, was presented the yearly renewable grant by the Very Rev. James Maguire, R.C. pastor of St. Ignace church, on the occasion of the school's annual convocation in Chicago.

A total of $2,500 was awarded, and McMahon has been awarded Loyola scholarship with a total of $17,000.

David is a member of the National Honor Society, student body president, and a member of the school's debate team. He plans to attend Loyola after his graduation.

His scholarship carries full tuition and a reasonable yearly allowance of $1,000.

The Very Rev. James F. Maguire, president of Loyola University, presents a scholarship to Mount Prospect High School senior David McMahon. David plans to attend Loyola after his graduation.

Knight Train to Chug Up Nippersink Trail

When the curtain rings down on the Prospect High School Junior-Senior Prom on Friday, May 20, at Hickory Auditorium in Bensenville, the fun will be far from over for couples participating in the After Prom On-Campus sponsored by a parent committee.

A seven-car, double-deck train will leave the Mount Prospect high school at 1:00 a.m. Saturday following the prom for a 400 to 500-mile journey to the Wisconsin Dells where couples will dine, dance and be entertained as they enjoy their trip.

Those of this year's prom prize party are "Promper" and "Knight Train."

The train, which will include two baggage cars for refreshments and a car for participants, will return to the young people and their chaperones in Mount Prospect around 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Arlington High School was one of the first in the nation to promote after prom parties for students. The first Prospect after prom party was held in 1961. Since that time it has been growing in popularity.

The After Prom committee recently did not include any couples.

Cost of the trip, including expenses, is $25. The committee suggests that the school of the student may be split by the boy and his date.

The party includes transportation, food, refreshments, all entertainment and insurance.

STUDENTS at Prospect High School voted by a two-thirds majority to support the after prom party.

Students are to be permitted to attend the party and the committee will be in charge of the party in this fall - third year - two nights by all students. The price of the admission, the greater the better.

All the present time, students are busy preparing posters and recruiting literature about the party.

Dist. 57 Board Approves Plans

The program of summer studies plans in Dist. 57 were discussed by board members Monday after they heard a report from executive assistant to the superintendent, A. J. Gatto.

He told the board they had received 100 positive responses from questionnaires sent to parents of about 1,500 families.

Committee to hold the summer and remedial fields were proposed by Gatto and a tentative schedule of May 17 will set out for the final summer school enrollment plans.

The board questioned Gatto particularly about problems in the district.

He said more than 80 parents had expressed "dislike" in the classes for their children and so from the district might have as many as four classes, two each on the north and south sides.

The chairman, he said, could serve as a "pivot school" where the people would be attracted so that teachers in the first grade could follow the impact of summer school on each child's educational progress.

Gatto mentioned that Ralph Blanton, superintendent in the Barrington schools, had devised a means of identifying gifted children early in their elementary school years.

He suggested that 27 school profits from using Blanton's technique.

In order for a pupil to be placed into the summer school classes, he said, one must be five years old by Dec. 1, 1964.

This is the first time Dist. 57 has planned for pre-kindergarten classes.

In discussing other summer school courses, Gatto said the program was more than half supporting in terms of paying teacher salaries.

He declined to discuss summer sessions finally, saying it was an "unconventional time" to do so since applications forms had just been sent out.

Pupils now in school, he said, will have their selection of summer school discussed among the enrichment committee.

These Men Are Building Telephone Offices

Long before construction starts on a new telephone switching center, three engineers are at work planning the equipment layout. They place every switch, relay and copper wire laid on paper before installation starts.

There are some of the people who work at Western Electric's new headquarters and engineering center, now being built at Rolling Meadows.

You, too, may qualify for one of the many career opportunities offered by this progressive company. For information, apply at Room 1050, Merchandise Mart.

Apartment Living With A Balcony

Among the several unusual choices offered to renters of the new Ramlin Rose North Apartments is a large balcony just off the living room of the second - story units. This feature is available for the three - bedroom, the two - bedroom or the one - bedroom unit.

In the first - floor apartments, the balcony may be replaced by a patio area just outside the sliding glass doors, which take up nearly the entire wall of the living room.

Jack Tomlinson, Sales Director of Kaseba & Panchito Developers, says, "Our objective here is to combine the convenience of apartment living with the opportunity for genuine comfort usually found only in individual suburban-planned homes. And that calls for a large, practical - type balcony - one that can really be used and enjoyed on a summer evening."

Tomlinson points out a number of other choices open to Ramlin Rose renters - with the space - comfort approach emphasized throughout. First of these is the buyers' choice of basic size and floor plan, from one - and - two - and three-bedroom layouts. Rents start at $140 per month for the 1-bedroom unit. The one and two-bedroom apartments have one bathroom; the three-bedroom, one - and - a-half bath.

OVERALL, "Ramlin Rose" interior layouts are designed for individual taste, with traffic patterns carefully worked out. Regardless of size, the traffic center of each apartment is at the juncture of the entrance, the corridor to the sleeping area, and the kitchen-dining area.

The living room itself, is large enough to serve as the family room. According to size of apartment, the living room varies from over 17 feet to 19 feet in length; and from 12 1/2 feet to 13 feet in width. The heavy, floor - to - ceiling sliding glass doors open out to the patio area or to the balcony. The latter is railled in decorative wrought iron - is approximately six feet in depth, and is as wide as the family - living room.

IN EACH apartment, the dining and informal eating areas are attractively combined. Convenient arrangement is the main objective here.

Ramlin Rose North provides wide, open park - like spacing between buildings, with two pools, will serve residents - and special playground areas are planned for the children. Off - street parking will be provided for every family, and all minor maintenance is cared for by the "round" by the management.

Furnished model apartments may be seen at Ramlin Rose North each day from noon to 6 p.m. - and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends. The community is located in Rolling Meadows, just north of the Northwest Expressway, at Illinois Routes 53 and 62.

Decorating With Blue Grass

Merion owners during the coming season can have decorative designs, even their own or initials, worked out on their lawns by the use of sod, combining two different strains of blue grass, one a darker green than the other. In addition, a greater variety of grasses than ever before, strain developed for different purposes and locations will be available for use on home owners' lawns, athletic fields and public playgrounds and parks, according to Ben O. Warren, in charge of grass development and research for Warren's Turf Nursery.

Warren pointed out that in the past much has been done with flowers and other plants toward finding and developing beautiful or useful strains, but very little has been done with grass. The 1920's brought the first of this sort of development by the golf association, working with crumping bent and fine-grass strains. The 1930's saw a slight increase in this work, including the development of bluegrasses, but little of these grasses, with the exception of Delta bluegrass, were released to the public.

"Merion bluegrass, now so popular for lawns in the East and Midwest was first discovered in the 1930's, but was not available for home use until 1948," he said. "Merion became increasingly popular in the 1950's, because of its beauty and disease resistance. During the 1950's, Kentucky bluegrass also became popular through improvements in various strains of this grass."

"During the 1960's, our nursery brought out several new grasses," Warren said. "One which we designate as 'A-34' is a bluegrass which thrives in shade. This bluegrass should be quite popular in older suburbs and other heavily treed areas. Other strains of bluegrasses show remarkable disease resistance. Still others take a very close cut and are excellent for home putting greens and play areas, because they require less maintenance on these crumping bent, commonly used for this purpose."

DR. M. C. Shurtleff, plant pathologist from the University of Illinois, said that the best way to combat lawn diseases is by proper maintenance practices, rather than the indiscriminate use of chemical fungicides.

"There are several recommended procedures of lawn care for the home owner or landscaper to control grass diseases," Dr. Shurtleff said. "Pick up grass clippings and keep down thatch, so disease build-up in thatch. Mow at proper, recommended maximum heights for type of grass and mow frequently. Water seldom but deeply."

New Headquarters

Highlight Of Realtors Meeting

Dedication of the new headquarters building of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at noon on May 5 will be the highlight of the spring meeting of the Association and its affiliate organizations, May 6-10, in Chicago.

The dedication ceremony will be conducted by Jack Weston, Miami Beach, Fla., president of the 15,000-member Association. Also participating will be hundreds of the 1,500 Realtors attending the meeting and the presidents of the more affiliated institutions, societies, and councils, eight of which will move into the new building with NAREB.

The six-story building purchased by the Association is located at 155 East Superior

St. in what is known as the "Million Dollar Mile," since the area is the fastest growing business and commercial section of the city. The move into the new building from the present accommodations at 34 South Wabash Avenue is expected to be accomplished by June. NAREB maintains a separate office in Washington, D.C., in which are located its Division of Public Affairs and the Society of Industrial Realtors.

IN ADDITION to the building dedication, the meeting of the NAREB board of directors on May 10, and meetings of the various committees of the Association and the affiliates, several special sessions are scheduled during and immediately preceding the five-day meeting.

The International Trade Club, exchange division of the National Institute of Real Estate - Realtors, will conduct a clinic on advanced negotiating May 5, and, on the same day, the Institute of Real Estate Management will hold an informal discussion on three topics: "How to Make Money in Managing an Apartment," "Making Management Pay," and "Executive Problems in Operating a Management Office."

Arthur C. Cody, retiring executive vice-president of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, will be honored at a dinner May 6. Mr. Cody joined AIREA in 1944 and became head of the Institute's staff in 1962.

Tired Of Your Kitchen?

If your present kitchen is a dull, dreary and inconvenient place in which to work you can do something about it.

New tile flooring, built-in wood or steel cabinets, a built-in range, and sink, and hand cabinets will convertible counters can bring it up to date.

The accompanying pictures, taken in an apartment project the remodeling of which was financed by First Federal Savings and Loan of Chicago, indicate how a minimum of work and expense will make a big difference in a room.

DO-IT-YOURSELF

Working With Plywood Poses Problems

Plywood is a unique material offering large surfaces, strength and lightness. But working with it is a little different from working with ordinary lumber.

Most beginners run into one common problem. They find that when they cut plywood the cut on one side is left ragged and splintered.

Generally a sheet of plywood has one face that is better than the other, one face that is finished. Mark the better face and cut with this side up.

With this exception—if you use a portable saw cut with the good face down. The rule is that the point of each saw tooth must enter the wood on the surface that will be exposed.

A hand saw and a table saw blade enter the top surface first. With a portable saw the tooth enters from the underside. If you are using a saber saw saw in which direction the tooth of the blade point, then arrange your work so that these enter the good side of the wood first.

Strip lumber on the underside will help you when you cut with a hand saw. Cut both the scrap and the plywood to prevent splintering. When using a table saw, use a blade without much set to it, a blade with fine teeth. Set the blade so that when it cuts, the teeth protrude above the plywood no more than their own height.

Plan Ahead

Plywood comes in large sheets from which many smaller pieces can be cut. Lay out your work in advance so that you will use every possible inch of the plywood. A paper pattern that is full-size will help.

If you are using a table saw try to arrange your cutting in a sequence that will allow you to cut several pieces that are the same dimension before you change the setting to another. When you lay out your work, remember to allow enough room for the saw kerf—the thickness of the cut—between pieces.

If plywood edges are rough and need planing, plane from the ends toward the center. If you must sand the face of the plywood, sand in the direction of the grain.

When nailing plywood across nails about six inches apart for heavy plywood, but closer with light plywood to prevent buckling. If nailing close to an edge, drill holes first with a drill just a little thinner than the nail.

Screws are stronger than nails. Use flathead screws and pilot holes first. Countersink both ends and screws and fill with wood putty. Apply the putty so that it is slightly higher than the wood surface. Sand smooth when it dries. When gluing, remember that the end grain of a piece of plywood will absorb glue quickly. Give the end grain a preliminary coat of glue and let it soak in. Then apply a second coat before joining.

One Disadvantage
The one disadvantage of plywood is the appearance of edge-wood. The exposed layers of wood that have been joined together to form a sheet of plywood have an attractive appearance. A thin, straight strip of wood the same width as the thickness of the plywood can be glued to the edge for trim.

Paper-thin wood edging with an adhesive back is available that can be applied easily to the edge.

Things to Look For When Buying Roses

BY RICHARD DE LAND
Roses are considered the queen of flowers. Therefore it is not surprising that almost all of us at one time or other try to grow a few roses.

Even apartment dwellers in their homes can enjoy a few days of roses on the bench if they purchase blooming plants from their florist. Fortunately these florist varieties such as Carol Austin and Garnie are extremely hardy. Therefore when the bloom is over, these plants can be put in the garden. Apartment dwellers can place their plants on to an appreciative gardening friend.

Although blooming roses in pots can be planted at any time during the growing season, packaged bare root roses must be planted within the next few weeks. There are several reasons for using bare-root stock. Planted now they will produce a complete season of bloom starting in mid-June.

BARE ROOT stock is often available in a complete selection of varieties. In addition, bare root stock especially are pointed variation, can often be purchased at very reasonable prices. However, when purchasing packaged roses there are some things to observe. Be certain that the rose is labeled as a number one grade. One and a half is a smaller or lighter selection.

Plants should be also completely dormant. If shoots are over a half inch in length, snap off this light tender growth. Rather than long thin twiggly canes, select packages that have at least two or three very thick canes.

Last year I was curious about the value of some of these bare root roses so I planted about twenty. Without any fancy preparation I simply dug the holes and shaped the roots over the coarseness of soil and filled. Although they were given plenty of water no fertilizer was added until late June. All roses survived and were in bloom by late June. Bloom continued until Thanksgiving. Just before Easter I discovered them and found that all twenty survived.

THIS WEEKEND they are going to need some additional work. Pink buds are starting to break, so I'll give them some final pruning by weeding for these living buds. I can tell how far back the cane has winter killed. They can then be pruned accordingly.

For the widest and fullest bush you will want to prune back to a bud that is pointing out and away from the center. Perhaps you'll notice that some of your canes have black spots surrounded by a very colored halo. These canes should be pruned below these spots or cankers regardless of the direction the top bud points. Cover the cane with a rose paint. If you can't find a paint, use a thick coat of white paint. If the black spot will not gain a foot hold.

Impact of California Strong in Home Decor

At the mere mention of "California living" what visions cross your mind? For some, it may be palm trees waving in the warm semi-tropical breeze. For others it may be crescent-shaped beaches, a rolling surf and a backdrop of snow-capped mountains. Some people create pictures in their minds of sport clothes, casual dress, or the glamour of Hollywood. But think of the strong impact California has had on fashion across the country.

The California way of life has definitely influenced the environment and habits of Americans everywhere. Many business, style and color trends originate there. One best known example is outdoor cooking which got its start in the West. Much fresh, original styling of apparel and of home furnishings has been created in the spectacular California environment.

ALMOST native to the California scene are mission Spanish and modern home styles. Typical modern-style California homes utilize nature's materials in natural finishes: redwood, cedar, fieldstone to name a few.

Broad expanses of window glass, wide roof overhangs, wall-to-wall carpeting throughout the interiors are typical. Many new homes in California include wall-to-wall carpet installed by the builder, in quantities consistent with the price range of the houses.

THE MOST popular broadloom styles for these casual contemporary homes are the shaggy-textured or pebble-textured deep plush pile, often in off-white, light or bright colorings.

Both types are available in wall-to-wall broadloom from Karastan Rug Mills. CAMINEAU, a shaggy wool car-

A NEW eye-catching accent panel, a gold-on-white Capistrano mural, has been added to the line of plastic-finished Marlite paneling now available at local lumber dealers. This valuable paneling, which is highly-resistant to heat and moisture, never needs refinishing. The 5' wide panel also fits neatly on the back wall of a bathroom recess. Designers, however, have used effectively this Capistrano mural panel as an accent in almost every room of the home.

Modular Dimensions

"Modular dimensions" sounds very technical, but it simply means that the sizes of building materials are based on standard building measurements so that they will fit with a minimum of cutting.

Sliding Doors From Panels

Sliding doors can be made quickly and inexpensively by cutting to size prefinished paneling, which does not require painting or refinishing. This 1/4" plastic-finished hard-board paneling will not shrink or expand, resists hard wear, and is easy to cut and fit.

What's New?

A new finish adds protection to the entire surface, not just the top, of wooden furniture. It was developed through the combined research of a furniture manufacturer and a chemical company, and is described as "tantamount to coating all exposed wood surfaces with a moisture and stain resistant envelope." Cleaning is no problem, they claim. Wiping with a damp cloth or using standard furniture polish is all that is required normally, plus a light coat of paste wax once or twice a year.

("Micro," Eisen Brother furniture, and Du Pont).

Household Hints

The first step in any paint job is to clean the surface. If old paint is in a powdery condition, use a wire brush on the surface.

Don't overlook the convenience of re-using cleaned, washed cottage cheese containers for plastic bowls, for mixing paints, storing nails, and dozens of other tasks.

Jaycees Are Chasing Those 'No Sand' Blues

Sand is only a dirt away. A child's sandcastle, a boy's or girl's lawn may be filled with sand by using Amelco DelMarco at CL 54100. Ext. 201.

The Arlington Heights Jaycees Sandfill Fill is moving into its second week. Saturday, October 20, will be the last day for Saturday, May 14. Profits from the sale will benefit the Clearbrook School for the Mentally Retarded.

Last weekend the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. offered returned more than 245 orders. So far, 223 of the orders have been filled. The response is expected to be heavy for the two remaining weeks.

The Jaycees will deliver sand for $1 a wheelbarrow load. There is no restriction on quantity and dump truck loads are available.

It is the sixth year the Sandfill Sale has been conducted. The Jaycees have pledged a total of $1,000 to the Clearbrook School and they hope to increase it to at least half of that amount from this program.

Latest Chevrolet, Buick Park Buck, Arlington Firestone, Arlington Co. Motor Truck and Jim Bell are behind their cock-pick trucks for the project.

"Daddy, we have no sand," say Robert, 3, and David, 2, to their father Randy Thomas of the Jaycees. Like several Arlington Heights fathers, Thomas is ordering sand from the Jaycees and Sandfill Sale which will be Saturday May 7 and 14.

'Far North' Residential Plan Endorsed

By JIM MOBS

A petition for the rezoning of approximately 37 acres of land to make way eventually for a new housing project was approved Wednesday night by the Village Plan Commission.

The request was made by 345 Homes of Rialto Meadows and west of the Rialto Meadows subdivision in the vicinity of Rialto and Arlington Heights Rds.

The petitioners requested a change from the present R-1 classification to R-2. Both classifications are single-family residential. The average size of the rezoned lots, according to the petition, would be 3,600 square feet, or slightly higher than the average for lots in Rialto Square.

No definite plan for the subdivision has been submitted pending approval of the rezoning.

The recommendation of the Plan Commission will be presented to the Board of Trustees.

Trustees Await a 'Big Plan'

A major residential development appears to be in the making for Arlington Heights.

The village board postponed action on a $1.5 million project at Algonquin and Wilbur Rds. Monday because of the delay in the plan for 136 acres in the area.

Trustee John J. Walsh Jr. said he learned of the residential plan while attending the village's luncheon for Builders Monday at the Old Orchard Country Club.

Bennett P. Trappan of Mues Prospect is seeking approval of 499 apartment units of 41 acres at the northeast corner of Wilbur and Algonquin. His plan presented with Robert Ryan of Mues Prospect has had little appeal to the Plan Commission.

Board member L. D. Anderson said that if the petitioner could present a plan for 136 acres in the area, it would be a big plan.

Trappan and Ryan seek multi-family and business units for their property that includes more than 24 acres near 2000 single-family residential.

The village is hesitant to extend multiple family zoning eastward without knowing what will happen to the large tract of vacant property west of the area.

TRAPPAN told the land is under option by Miller Builders, one of the largest residential developers in the area. Walsh and he were told that a plan will be available this week and would be approved by the village board.

There must be a beginning to the rezoning process, Walsh said, and that it would not be of benefit to the area.

Board member L. D. Anderson said that if the petitioner could present a plan for 136 acres in the area, it would be a big plan.

The recommendation that the petition be a special plan was presented to the Board of Trustees on May 16.

Citizen Curbs Driver for Police

A citizen curbed a driver who police attempted to arrest after his auto hit a youth.

In jail was George A. Bacon, 60, of St. Ann, Ill., charged with obstructing justice, failure to yield to a pedestrian and leaving the scene of an accident.

The incident happened Wednesday afternoon at Vail and Campbell in the central business district.

James Schlar, 15, of 205 N. Dryden, told police he was crossing Vail as Bacon's auto stopped at a stop sign. Schlar said the car knocked him to the pavement, stopped a moment and then passed over the youth. The youth was not seriously injured.

Schlar said that as he got up and walked to the curb he car sped up and drove away.

On May 13, of 1430 N. Arlington Heights Rd., saw the accident and drove the motorist, carrying the car in the 100 block of north Vail. Walter and other witnesses said Bacon until police arrived.

Police booked Bacon on the three charges and held him in jail when he was unable to post $1,000 bond.

Schlickman Honored By Rutgers

Donor Robert Eugene F. Schlickman of Arlington Heights is one of two Illinois legislators honored by Rutgers University to sustain a political action fund.

The honor bestowed upon Schlickman comes from the Rutgers Institute of Politics, created by a $200,000 grant from Mrs. Florence Paulson Fugate to advance and promote knowledge of government and public affairs.

The institute will be held the week of Aug. 7 at the Key Biscayne Hotel in Florida. Schlickman will be able to participate in the State Legislator Seminar along with 25 other "promising" legislators from the nation's 10 most populous states.

Paul Donald G. Herberich, the institute executive director, said "The object of the Legislator Seminar is to provide conscientious state legislators with a working acquaintance with the tools they can employ to strengthen the general state legislative function."

Planner Moves Son Follows Father's Step

M. Eugene Baughman, 517 Baubury, can attest to that old saying "father, like son."

Baughman was cited Monday for his services to Arlington Heights, indicating authority of the community's master plan.

Baughman left this week to begin work with the Redevelopment Commission of Indianapolis.

During the evening of a home and doing his affairs, Baughman's eldest son David was graduating from University College as a business administration major.

When David got around to telling David about his Indianapolis move, David had been for him, too. He had just accepted a job with Laidlaw Co. at Indianapolis.

The coincidence would not have been nice. When school was over, Mr. Baughman and two daughters Anne and Anne will leave Arlington Heights to join the firm. The Baughmans have another son, John, who is a student at the University of Illinois.

"THE ONLY condition, which we require for participation in the seminar is that the legislator plan to run for state legislature in the next Assembly or Senate when their term expires."

Schlickman currently is making office as Vice President of the Republican Committee as well as state representative. He is a former village trustee in Arlington Heights.

He has been active in Republican affairs for 10 years and has devoted his time to numerous community activities. He is an attorney with Harwood & Schlickman, N. Danone, and lives at 311 N. Delmar.

Schlickman attracted attention to his ability to be in selected employees, his bill to improve the Village of Arlington Heights was vetoed by the governor.

Boy Tells Kidnap Attempt

A 10-year-old boy told police Wednesday that a man and woman attempted to kidnap him and he was at the corner of Thomas and Watson when the car drove up to where he was standing. The driver of the car tried to pull him into the back seat, but the woman was acting.

When the car took off at a high rate of speed, the boy was thrown out of the car.

The car was described as a new, model, two-door, light blue. The man and woman were described as being "from 20 to 35 years old."

Smaller Lot Sise Approved

A reduction of lot size has been approved by the Village Board for property on Walnut between Kimbrell and Central Rds.

The change was requested by Donald Plummer to permit a lot with 72 feet frontage instead of the lot with 100 feet frontage. The change was approved by a 4-2 vote.

Plummer from several surrounding suburbs was called to Park Ridge last night to build an extra-large home that would be a landmark. The house was to be built on the corner of the lot. The first step in an adjoining Park Office building and garage. The Park Ridge Post Office reported complete loss of a quantity of mail and books and mail, all the equipment for sorting mail and all books.

No More Commuting

Train-Riding Is Just a Memory

Miss Elizabeth Andrews, a commuter from Arlington Heights to Chicago from 1928 to early this year, with W. A. Miles III, president of Miles & Miles, Inc. insurance firm.

BY JERILYN WATSON
Women's Editor

The trip from home to her office takes Elizabeth Andrews about five minutes these days — and she says it's quite a relief after 37 interrupted years of commuting to Chicago by train.

Miss Andrews, secretary-treasurer of Miles & Miles, Inc., insurance firm, began commuting daily in the Chicago offices of the same firm from Arlington Heights in 1928.

Train-riding became a memory this year, when Miles & Miles consolidated its offices into a new headquarters at 229 S. Arlington Heights road.

"I certainly don't miss that train," said Miss Andrews, her eyes twinkling. "I don't mind the ride at all the more because I could read the newspapers. But, in the evening, it was a terrible just to get a rest."

Miss Andrews signed a schedule of Chicago and North Western Railway trains dated December, 1929.

"Look at the price here," she said, pointing to the rate listed for a 60-day ticket. It was $9.77.

"When I stopped commuting," she said, "an unlimited monthly ticket cost $27.49."

MISS ANDREWS' Arlington Heights home during her early train-riding years was in Skokie, where she lived with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Miles.

"To those days," she grinned, "I'd always stop for people I knew to be on their way to the commuter station and give them a lift."

"Now, with Arlington Heights so big, people don't do that much."

SHE NOTED another change in village life. "When we had a good party with a little noise going in Skokie, people would crash — and be welcome."

"If someone crashes a party now, the police are called."

Today Miss Andrews lives with her sister, now a widow, on The distance between office and home is so short that Miss Andrews says she "could share all the way."

In reality, her sister drives her.

"THIS is really, only a much more pleasant way to live," said Miss Andrews. She admits that not taking the train has caused a problem, though.

"Now that I don't have to make the 801, I have difficulty getting started and getting to work on time," she said.

Strike Puts Lake On Smoldering

Contractor Explains Costs; It's Game for High Stakes

Surprising is the game and the stakes are high. The high spending to construct Mount Prospect contractor.

"We're stuck. The union is focusing only on its own problem. They're not concerned with the overall economy," said Ed Salzman, executive vice president of Milburn Bros., 704 W. Central Rd.

Striking is his wood-painted office, Salzman told The Day about costs.

He said Milburn employs an average of 33 operating men—men who run lockers, asphalt spreaders, motor graders, rollers, etc.—and 100 men and women in the office.

Currently they are paid between $2.25 and $4.70 an hour, along with fringe benefits which cost the company 15 cents an hour.

THE UNION proposal calls for wage increases averaging 43 cents an hour, and a 10 percent increase in fringe benefits totaling 15 cents an hour.

Earth Movers Out 4th Week; Other Jobs Cut

By GEORGE HAMILTON

The strike of road-grader and bulldozer operators, now in its fourth week, has brought construction of homes in the area to a virtual halt.

Builders and contractors report that hundreds of homes cannot be completed, many others cannot be started, and that it is only a matter of a few weeks more before all construction will be a complete stop.

Since Local 150, AFL-CIO International Union of Operating Engineers, called the strike April 11 in disagreement over new contract terms, any job that requires moving earth has been held.

This means excavation for foundations, leveling, grading, grading and preparation for streets and sidewalks.

Only construction now proceeding is the completion of houses and apartment buildings which are in the process of being completed by The Day report that by the end of the week, such construction is finished, if the strike goes on.

The strike will go on, says the strike go on, says the strike go on, says the strike go on.

TO MAKE matters worse, other strikes appear possible once the heavy equipment operators go back to work.

Presently working on the homes in Arlington Heights are the drivers of concrete trucks. Many builders speculate that these drivers will strike for higher wages once the equipment operators return to work.

After that, the operators are expected to join their ranks at the negotiating table.

The result of it all will be, as one builder understood it, a year building homes.

Here's what contractors and builders told The Day:

348 Homes — Sixty homes under construction in Berkeley Square at a standstill. Others are expected to join their ranks at the negotiating table.

No foundations to start homes.

Noting the condition of this particular piece of the town, many additional homes will be put on hold for the time being.

Ward St. Paving — The town's paving department is expected to join their ranks at the negotiating table.

Pre-School Vision Tests Registration Monday

Arlington Heights pre-schoolers will have an opportunity to play an important "game" with rulers, clocks and flowers.

The "game" of Arlington Heights is a national pre-school vision screening available for children from 3 to 5 years of age.

At all registration sites, the children will be given a McGraw-Hill "The Table of the Table" test.

It has been found that about 5 per cent of preschool children have impaired vision in one eye, newly eye inspected," said Helen C.

hens, director of health services.

"Because the success of any public health program depends on the interest and cooperation of the people being screened, the Arlington Heights Public Health Department is sponsoring the program."

No Prints For Bus Drivers

Area school bus drivers will continue to go unfingerprinted for awhile longer.

The reason: A bus driver charged with the murder of a student in 1964, who was later found to be innocent, was given his retirement badge by Sgt. J. Gorman (right) as the gathering in the Arlington P.W. and Johnson's wife, Mrs. Johnson, looked on.

The two school boards met last night with Philip Marshall, state transportation field supervisor, to discuss the situation.

Marshall said that the state has right school bus driver requirements and each driver must file out every year and even more every five years to be licensed.

TESTS include such things as physical examinations, vision tests, driver's license tests, and driver's license tests.

"I will not provide safety checks on the bus. He will be personally responsible for the bus for cleanliness, broken down, proper signals, stop lights, broken, fire extinguishers, etc.," he said.

Marshall said checks by the state involved only traffic violations and would not reveal any driver's license information. The driver may have.

WHEN asked if background checks would reveal driver's license and bus company information, Marshall said, "I'm sorry."

Reph. Campbell said that the individual school board would be responsible for the background checks and most agents said that they would be responsible for the background checks and most agents said that they would be responsible for the background checks.

Alft Beats Drums For 'Shop at Home'

A possible way of paying for services or maybe even a large part of downtown improvements in Arlington Heights has been proposed by the Chamber of Commerce.

How? Estimated new shopping in Arlington Heights, Charles Alft, executive manager of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce, said shoppers who go downtown are costing the village $200,000 a year.

This is the amount of money Alft estimates the village is losing in sales tax revenue because Arlington Heights has been losing sales to neighboring towns.

While the dollar volume of sales has grown slightly, sales tax figures for the past four years reveal a decline in percentage of sales in Arlington Heights, almost 40 percent proportionate to the income tax.

Alft estimates that the village could save one-half cent from the 4 cents on every dollar in sales tax collected by the state, the reversal of sales tax on Arlington Heights, a considerable sum.

ALFT POINTS OUT there are many ways the village could use the money, either to provide for additional services or at least to keep taxes down. That the Chamber has begun its campaign to "Buy in Arlington."

Admittedly that the change began with the opening of Roundabout, Alft said—"It is a foregone conclusion that large shopping centers' had 'mass merchandisers' are here to stay, but it does not mean our inability to meet the challenge."

The Chamber urges local businessmen to stimulate sales in Arlington Heights by providing what a big merchant cannot. Personality.

Emphasizing that it is the total mood and atmosphere of a shop that the customer "buys" more than the items they buy, the Chamber feels the importance of individuality and distinctive atmosphere. Also important is the need for neat and orderly display as well as eye-appealing interior and exterior decor.

"We possess all the tangible and intangible factors to create a unique buyer experience—it's just a matter of exposing our talents," Alft said.

The chamber also plans to promote the "Buy in Arlington" campaign by making shopping in the village a pleasant and convenient as possible.

The chart is a comparison of the percentage of sales tax collected by Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect for the past four years. The dollar totals for the two villages are
